Sebastian Lake Community Advisory: WATER CONSERVATION
December 28, 2022

Dear Sebastian Lake Residents:

You should continue to see increase in water pressure as repairs are being made, resulting from the recent severe storm system. We do expect low pressure to continue to occur over the next 1-2 days during which time you will remain on a boil water advisory.

As an additional precaution, we ask that you please lower your water use for laundry, dishwashing, and other non-essential activities including any outdoor irrigation, as much as possible while we work to address this situation. Updates can be found on our website, so please check.

Thank you for your patience, especially during the times when we must resolve unexpected issues that require your cooperation. As always, we are committed to delivering safe, reliable, and environmentally responsible water resources to you and your community.

Sincerely,

Sebastian Lake Utility Operating Company
